admitting the fact that it is late in the season to launch such an enormous enterprise I wish to make the following statement—Striking the eastern market at a time when buyers were scarce; we were over-rushed with bargain opportunities from the manufacturer and took the cream of everything almost our own price.

Any lady who is in the market for wearing apparel will here see something entirely new and unexpected not only styles but also in the lowness of the prices asked.

Your money will be cheerfully refunded if any article here-in advertised can be duplicated elsewhere at our price. This we are determined will be the greatest opening Waukegan has ever seen.

I have always endeavored to please the ladies of this city and vicinity and if ever the efforts have met with success they surely will this time.

Woman's World

MISS LOUISA D. HORSLEY.

She Nominated Secretary Taft For President Thirty-eight Years Ago. If William H. Taft should ever be nominated and elected president of the United States, there is in Cincinnati a quiet, inconspicuous little woman who, although she has been a wage earner for nearly two score years, would in all probability figure as the unofficial guest of honor at the inaugural ball and all other attendant festivities. The little woman is Miss Louisa D. Horsley, an old schoolteacher of William H. Taft, who nominated him for president thirty-eight years ago. Next month Miss Horsley will celebrate her fortieth anniversary as a teacher in the Cincinnati public schools.

It was about thirty-eight years ago she had among her pupils in the A. intermediate grade of the Mount Auburn public school twelve-year-old Willie

MISS LOUISA D. HORSLEY.

Taft. His home was within a stone's throw of the schoolhouse, and the old homestead still stands there. At that time the Mount Auburn school where Miss Horsley is still teaching consisted of but three rooms, over one of which she presided. Just how well she did so is indicated by a story told by one of her "boys," a classmate of Willie Taft.

"We were all sitting around the stove one day toward the close of the year," he said. "Will Taft was there. Miss Horsley had been talking to us as she often did. She said that she was pleased with what we had accomplished, but that we could do lots better if we tried. 'One of you boys could likely be president. Why not try?' she said."

"I remember the incident well," said Miss Horsley recently when reminded of the incident, "and I would certainly be exceedingly pleased to see William Taft occupy the place for which he is so well fitted."

Work as Punishment.

Unless a mother wants to heap up trouble for herself and the child now and later on it is better never to punish by making the child perform a certain amount of work, says Hilda Richmond to the Housekeeper. There are mothers who keep certain disagreeable tasks for little sinners, just as some cities compel their offenders against public peace to repair roads or break stone. This is risky business, since it gives the child the impression that it is a misfortune to have to work.

A grown man says he hates the very sight of an onion bed because his mother made him weed the tiny plants every time he was naughty when he was a child. Onion weeding is tedious, back-breaking work at best, but when it is done as a punishment it becomes horrible. A bright penny, a special treat in the way of a big orange or a trip to the pond to fish would have sent the boy whistling to the onion bed determined to conquer or die, but to be chained there, so to speak, with a smarting sense of his wrong makes him recall those days yet.

Some mothers put the little girls to patchwork when they are restless and in mischief, but the only thing accomplished is to make the little fingers loathe the needlework. I have seen rebellious little girls making buttonholes all over a piece of old goods as punishment for some wrongdoing. The work was wasted because the mother threw it in the wastebasket the minute she was satisfied with the effort, and the children only turned out good work in order to be released.

Solitary idleness is better than work as punishment. Often when left to themselves the children would gladly fake their work or work, but they always resent being ordered to work to atone for their sins. A long, quiet think will make them penitent, while hard work only makes them feel injured and gives them the lasting impression that all work is disgraceful.

Keep the Hair Dry.

"One of the first things to learn in the care of beautiful hair," said a professional hairdresser, a Frenchwoman, "is not to wet it too often. If it gets wet accidentally, be sure to dry it."

"Take your hair down at least once in the middle of the day and let it get dry. It is moist from perspiration; moist from the atmosphere; moist from

CITY LIFE A DELUSION.

Old Inhabitant Thinks Country Towns Offer More Happiness.

"Up at the depot just now," said one of the old inhabitants, "I saw several of the boys get off the train to spend the holidays at home. They've come back to the old town from the city, and I'll bet my bull pup against their turkey dinner with the home folks that most of 'em would remain right here in town if they were not ashamed to say that city life is not up to their expectations. And between you and me and the barn door I am strongly inclined to think that nine out of ten of the boys who go from any country town to a big city would make a better winning in the race of life if they would stay at home and grow up with their own community."

"I went to the city when I was a cub and stayed several years. But I was homesick all the time. The young fellow in a great city holding a job and working so many hours a day for somebody else is not by any means in such an enviable position as some of the people still in the country towns are inclined to think."

"I recall that when I was living in the city many years ago, working on a salary for a famous establishment, the local paper here once printed a notice about me that made me laugh out of one side of my mouth while I cried out of the other. According to the home paper, I was 'on the highroad to fortune in the city.' I was holding a highly responsible post with a great concern and making good, and all that sort of thing. The facts as to my responsible position were all right, but it cost me two or three times as much to live there as it did back home, and at the end of the year I usually found my bank account no bigger than it would have been had I remained at home and kept on working in Brown's general store."

"Finally I resolved to face the music and come back home. The word home means something in a small town too. As you know, I have a pretty good home, and I own it, no mortgages, and when the flowers bloom in the front yard every spring I compare my home and lot with the rented cell I used to occupy in the city greatly to the advantage of the home and lot. I'm not rich, but I'm comfortable. If I had stayed in the city, perhaps by now I might have had a large bank account—and perhaps not. But one thing is sure as shooting—I would not have had so many good friends nor half so high a standing in the city as I have here at home."

"My advice to the boys," concluded the old inhabitant, "is to think two or three times before they leap into a great city. In most cases they become mere cogs in a huge commercial wheel, the motive power being operated by somebody else. I may be old-fashioned, boys, but I am firm in the conviction that it is better to be an entire minor in a small, but clean and peaceful pond than to be the tail of a large fish in a stormy ocean. One way to build yourself up is to help build up your own town by believing it is the best town on earth for yourself and staying in it."

COMMUNITY IMPROVEMENT.

The Element of Permanency Is an Important One.

In a community where all or nearly all are home owners civic improvement is never a very serious problem, but in every center of population, no matter of what size, there are more or less of renters, and these have a deterrent effect upon progress in all its phases, says the Los Angeles Times. Permanency of residence is the only solid rock upon which desirable public improvements may be built, and a group of freethold cottagers will do more good work toward civic upbuilding than a like number of wealthy tenants. Those who have no fixed abiding place add little to community life or wealth.

Next to permanency of abode comes the standard of citizenship, and the two are so interwoven that it is often difficult to determine which is the more important factor, for each is dependent on the other. Another inseparable and necessary partnership is found in high intelligence and lofty ideals as the standard of citizenship. It is necessary to secure zealous co-operation of all if the highest and best is to be attained. Efficient, honest citizens, free from partisan leanings and knowing neither religious nor racial differences, are the broad minded type that must be chosen for public work if we are to be safeguarded against mismanagement and partiality.

Billboards as Nuisances.

California reports an inspiring advance in the campaign against offensive posters, billboards and advertising boardings in the judicial decision that such objects are nuisances, subject to abatement by the police authorities under the common law, says the New York Tribune. It was argued that anything needlessly offensive to the senses was a nuisance. A soap factory or a pigsty would not be tolerated in close proximity to residences because of the vile odors which would outrage the sense of smell. A stone crusher or a boiler factory would be similarly forbidden because of the outrage upon the sense of hearing. And the eyes are as precious as the nose or ears, and the sense of sight, the most useful and valuable of all the senses, is as much entitled to protection against outrage as any other.

So it was contended, and it was decided by the judge that posters or billboards which grossly offended the eye were for that reason nuisances and might be suppressed as such.

WARNED BY DESERTS

What These Sandy Wastes Mean to Mother Earth.

A DEATH GRIP ON THE WORLD

They Indicate the Beginning of the End of Our Beautiful Planet, Which Is Doomed to Roll Through Space a Parched and Lifeless Orb.

Deserts already exist on the earth, and the nameless horror that attaches to the word in the thoughts of all who have had experience of them or are gifted with imagination to conceive is in truth greater than we commonly suppose, for the cosmic circumstance about them which is most terrible is not that deserts are, but that deserts have begun to be. Not as local evilly evils are they only to be pictured, but as the general inescapable death grip on our world, for it is the beginning of the end. What depopulates the forests to grass lands and thence to wastes must in turn attack the sea bottoms when they shall have parted with their seas.

Last of the fertile spots upon the planet because of the salts the streams have for ages washed down and of the remnant of moisture that would still drain into them, eventually they must share the fortune of their predecessors and the planet roll a parched orb through space. The picture is forbidding, but the fact seems one to which we are constructively pledged and into which we are in some sort already adventured.

"Girdling the earth with what it takes, but little personification to liken to the life extinguishing serpent's coils run two desert belts of country. The one follows, roughly speaking, the tropic of Cancer, extending northward from it; the other, the tropic of Capricorn, Arizona is in the northern band, as are the Sahara, Arabia and the deserts of central Asia.

Now, these desert belts are growing. In the great desert of northern Arizona the traveler, threading his way across a sagebrush and cacti plain shut in by abrupt sided shelves of land rising here and there some hundreds of feet higher, suddenly comes upon a petrified forest.

Trunks of trees in all stages of fracture strew the ground over a space some miles in extent. So perfect are their forms he is almost inclined to think the usual wasteful woodchopper has been by and left the scattered products of his art in littered confusion upon the scene of his exploit. Only their beautiful color conveys a sense of strangeness to the eye, and leaning down and touching them, he finds that they are—stone, calcareous, not carbon! Form has outlived substance and kept the resemblance, while the particles of the original matter have all been spirited away. Yet so perfect is the presentment one can hardly believe the fact, and where one fallen giant spans a little canyon one almost thinks to hear the sound of water rushing down the creek.

But it is some millions of years and more since this catastrophe befell, and the torrent, proofing it, left it prone, with limbs outstretched in futile grasp upon the other side. A conifer it was, cousin only to such as grow today, and flourished probably in the cretaceous era, for the land has not been under water here since the advent of tertiary times.

Nowhere near it, except for the rare cottonwoods along the bank of the Little Colorado, grows anything today. The land which once supported these forests is incompetent to do so now. Yet nothing has changed there since except the decreasing water supply. During tertiary and quaternary time the rainfall has been growing less and less. Proof of this is offered by the great pine-oaks that cup the plateau of which these petrified forests form a part and is crowned by the San Francisco peaks. The height above sea level of the spot where the chalcidony trunks are strewn is about 4,500 feet. The lower present limit of the pine in its full development is 6,500 feet. Two thousand feet upward the verdure line has retreated since the former forests were. And this is no local alteration, for upon the other side of the plateau petrified remains of trees are similarly found.

The line of perpetual green has risen because in desert regions the moisture is found most plentiful nearest to the clouds from which it falls upon a parching earth. Streams, instead of gathering volume as they go, are largest near their source and grow less and less with each fresh mile of flow. The brooks descending from the Anti-Lebanon, in Syria, water the gardens of Damascus and, thence issuing upon the plain, lose themselves just beyond the threshold of its gates. So in the Arizona desert, though in a less degree, and those who live there know it but too well.—From Percival Lowell's "Mars and the Future of the Earth" in Century.

Breaking Wire.

Anybody who has tried to break a piece of wire without the aid of a pair of pliers will probably agree that the operation is both a difficult and painful one. There is a method, however, by which it may be easily accomplished. By bending the wire into a loop and pulling both ends as tight as possible an injury will be caused to the wire, which on being straightened will immediately break. By this means wire up to No. 12 gauge may be successfully dealt with.

Fire and sword are but slow engines of destruction by comparison with the babbling—Steele.

THE ROUNDUP COLUMN.

Willie West Talks on a Bundle of Timely Sporting Matters.

Isn't it the irony that a man named Pat O'Keefe should be the champion middleweight fighter of France?

Six day bicycle races cause many changes in anatomy. So far as the riders are concerned, the contests develop wasp waists, or disappearing stomachs, and patchwork faces that remind one of the stokers in Mr. Duane's "Inferno." The spectator usually gets a genuine rubber neck before he is through trying to "pipe off" all that's going on in the circular track used in these contests. Six day races of the present have deteriorated to such an extent that there is not the slightest element of sport in them. They are merely business enterprises of the most practical sort.

Tom Williams of the Oakland (Cal.) race track has followed August Belmont's policy of refusing to allow racing information to be sent to pool rooms from the track. Is this thing of keeping a man from losing his money on any day consistent with the constitutional guarantee of freedom?

Horse Trainer "Boots" Durnell now holds the "ruled out" record. "Boots" is worse off than "the man without a country." Nobody wants him, nobody loves him, and yet he still smiles.

There is one interesting fact that is always hanging on the outside for the habitual race track better—the one on the door of adversity.

At the big feed given at a famous hotel in New York by President Charles Murphy of the Chicago Nationals much that happened is too funny to print. In the first place, John T. Brush said only sweet things to "Molly," though all the time he wanted to tickle him with an eel spear. Then, Johnny Evers, Chicago's second base star, who graduated from the Town Lot college, tackled the French menu and set up a howl because there wasn't any food named thereon—so far as he could tell.

Mike Ilegan spring a poem, dedicated to Murphy. As a poem it's a wonder.

SECRET RATES GIVEN

Do Express Companies Thus Aid the Mail Order Houses?

CONGRESSMAN SO ALLEGES.

Mr. Anthony Presents Evidence to Show Violation of Interstate Commerce Act—Chicago Concern Indicted For Illegal Use of Mail.

A day of reckoning seems to be in prospect for some of the big mail order houses which appear to have been violating the laws. Congressman D. H. Anthony of Kansas, who represents the Leavenworth district and is a son of one of the most noted editors in the history of his state and a nephew of Miss Susan B. Anthony, the famous woman suffragist, has furnished evidence to Postmaster General Meyer which is said to show that some of the mail order concerns enjoy secret cut rates from the express companies.

Congressman Anthony has been gathering facts to substantiate his statement that the express companies give discriminatory rates, thus enabling the mail order people to ship their goods to country customers at rates low as or even lower than those suggested in the postmaster general's recent recommendation for the establishment of a parcels post. Should these charges be substantiated both the express companies and the mail order concerns participating in this underhand work are liable to prosecution under the interstate commerce act, just as the railroads and the Standard Oil company have been prosecuted for giving and accepting rebates on freight transportation.

Many country merchants oppose parcels post legislation because they fear that it would give such an advantage to the mail order stores in the large cities that the local retailers would be driven out of business. Just how Mr. Anthony's investigations may turn out is a matter of conjecture, but should his statements be substantiated by official investigation it is evident that the discovery of express rebates will tend to reconcile retail merchants to parcels post legislation. At any rate, these charges coming from a man of Congressman Anthony's standing should cause thousands of mail order patrons to think twice before patronizing houses suspected of violating this highly important law. Those who believe in equal rights to all and special privileges to none will be inclined to class the mammoth mail order concerns with the Standard Oil company and other preys on the public weal.

In Iowa the federal authorities are going after one mail order concern, that of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, in another way. The federal grand jury at Des Moines has returned an indictment in three counts against the Chicago firm on charges of using the mails to defraud.

It is alleged that this concern sold to a citizen of Des Moines some paints which it described in a letter to the prospective buyer as containing white lead and being manufactured "in our own great paint factory under the supervision of the finest paint experts." The indictment sets forth that the paints did not contain white lead and were not manufactured in the concern's own factory, Sears, Roebuck & Co. not possessing a paint factory.

The other two counts name a rural free delivery route victim who bought two rings from the Chicago concern on the strength of its catalogue recommendation. One of these rings was said to contain pearls and sapphires, the other pearls and rubies. Neither of the rings contained the jewels mentioned, according to the indictment.

As the catalogues and the rings were sent through the mails, a violation of the federal statutes is charged.

Whether this indictment holds or not, there is food for thought in the reflection that you cannot always get what you want by seeing a picture and description of it in a catalogue and sending your money by mail without first seeing the goods.

The local merchant keeps his "goods" in sight, and the purchaser always knows what he is buying. Purchasing articles by mail is pretty much like swamping pocketknives "unsight and unseen." Very frequently the other boy's knife is not half so good a knife as yours, but when you trade that way your knife is gone. It is a good rule to insist upon seeing the knife before making the trade.

At your home stores you can always see the knife and test the blades before buying.

Work For Live Improvement Society.

In small centers of population where none but the most general laws govern it is necessary to form an improvement society to look after the health and well being of the people as a whole, says the Los Angeles Times. The laws of hygiene must be observed. Both sewers and surface drainages should be provided by the people as a whole, and where no city government exists this is a splendid work for a live society for civic betterment.

Beautiful School Grounds.

Just at present is a good time for all interested to look over the local schoolyard and consider if it meets their ideas regarding beauty, shade, protection, educational value, etc. If it does not, the time is ripe to "get busy" with others whose interest is equal to yours and try to ameliorate present conditions so that this place of public property will no longer be a reproach to those in control.

THOUGHT READING.

How to how on a Watch Dial the Hour Secretly Chosen. The thought reader, taking a watch in one hand and a pencil in the other, proposes to give an exposition of his powers of divination.

He demands that some one present in the audience should privately think of some given hour.

This he arranged, he starts tapping about hours on the dial of the watch, "hour asking any questions, simply setting his unknown accomplice to count twenty taps from the hour he fixed.

For instance, if the hour be 6 he must tap the first tap as seven, the next eight, etc. When, according to this most counting, he has reached twenty must cry out "Stop," when the point the thought reader will be seen to on the original hour he has indicated on.

This is based on a simple arithmetical principle, but this fact is very rarely covered by the audience. Therefore, of course, no real thought reader can do it. All the performer has to do is to count his taps himself, beginning with one. The first seven taps he gives anywhere he likes on the dial—it matters not a jot, but the tap must always be given on three 12, and then the performer counts back from that point: eleven, ten, nine, etc., as his victim has counted up to twenty cries out "Stop!" so arranged.

Nothing this process you will find at the tap which, counting from the point the thought reader will have back to that very number.

Did see. You will find it all very easy.

Take, for instance, the simplest for illustration.

Use the victim's watch. The first tap, thirteen, the second as four, third as fifteen, etc., till he reaches twenty, which is the eighth tap, which you remember must fall on twelve, and there you have the hour private.

Any hour you like. It will give out right, and your reputation as a conjurer will be firmly established all at so very little trouble.

A Foster Mother.

And a cat is queer companion—history vouches for as strictly as a baby owl—a gray, fluffy little fellow fell into the hands of a plumber and was thereafter over his life and cat. This cat there had accepted a young as the place of her dead kitten—the forlorn owl with its after considering him as being bright-eyed, intelligent close to his body as a cat, and he had a resemblance to a gray little same time uttering a "meow," which the cat perhaps mistook for a purr. At any rate, to her heart, adopted him as a cat, and brought him and ground moles, for he had as great a fancy for a cat. When that had been put were living together in fellowship.

REAL DOWIE HERE

Original John A. Comes From Germany, and Says Zionist Was His Brother

REVEALS NEW SCRIPTURE

Returned Prophet, Self-Admitted, Says He is Here to Give Satan a Chase Zion City? Never

"John Alexander Dowie" arrived in Chicago from Munich, Germany, Sunday night, and will establish there the church of Moses.

The man who says he is the real John Alexander Dowie, and who explains Dowie the First, by declaring the dead ruler of Zion City was his brother, and took his name when they were boys, has established himself at 205 Michigan avenue, and has begun the organization of his church.

He changed his travel stained clothes for a black silk gown decked with crosses and insignia, and wore on his head a gold trimmed beretta. Monday afternoon and received a score of visitors.

"I am the real John Alexander Dowie," he said speaking with a slight German accent. The man you knew as Dowie, was my brother "Herman Alexander Dowie." When I was ten years old I was doing henlog and my brother was jealous of my fame. He wanted my name because he wished to be known as the second John the Baptist. At last he learned to do the divine healing as I did, and left home to go to America. He took my name then.

We were born in Glasgow, Scotland, and moved to London. Early in life I began preaching and healing through Germany, and have spent most of my time there. Forty-five years ago, in an audience at Berlin, numbering 3,000 I healed 400 sick at one time.

Dowie has papers and relics he claims establish his birth and relations with the former Dowie. He admits that he is a greater healer and religious leader than his famous brother.

I am the greatest divine healer the world ever knew. All my brother did in Chicago he learned of me.

I have a divine commission to carry out the teaching of seven books of Moses which are not in the Bible. I am the reincarnation of Moses. Where I have healed the multitude I am known as Moses II. The church of Moses will I establish here.

Are you planning to rehabilitate and restore Zion City? Dowie was asked. Never exclaimed the divine healer, and a shudder ran over his frame, and he drew back as if he had seen a ghost.

Just before my brother died, he explained he pronounced a terrible curse against those who wronged him, his wife, his son, Volira, and Zion city. In five years nothing will be left of these but a memory.

Dowie asserts that in an inspired dream the resting places of seven undiscovered books of Moses was revealed to him. They were taken from a cave near Stuttgart, Germany. The writings were on rusty manuscript, in Sanskrit and Hebrew. Dowie is now at work translating passages into English.

Other books I have found give instructions from Moses that are almost identical with the teaching of Christ. So it is the religion of Moses that I would teach to Chicago.

"It is all good stuff," continued Dowie. "I come through New York, but I did not stop there. I did not care to have notoriety. I care only to the work of the Lord that my brother started. I will take no money. The foxes have holes and the birds have nests, but I have not where to lay my head. I care not what happens to me as I am given the opportunity to teach."

Dowie said that he is 64 years old.

"Can you heal as well as you use to?"

Dowie was asked. "Will you be able to make people well in hucches in Chicago as you did in Germany?"

"Sore," was the reply. "I can do more than I ever did. The power comes more and more every year. If only people will believe they can be healed of disease the doctors have given up."

Dowie is with Francis Schlatter, a divine healer who received some attention while touring Western states several years ago. Schlatter has been in Germany for years preaching and healing, and come over on the same steamship with Dowie. They landed at Ellis island last Wednesday and came direct to Chicago.

A Drawback.

The great trouble with some men is that they can have self-respect without half trying.

AMANN NOW DENIES CRIME

Man Who Admitted Killing Time After Time Now Cowers in Fear of Death

Henry Rudolph Amann self confessed murderer, who pines away in a cell in the county jail at Waukegan and who has acknowledged many times that he murdered 11 year old Walter Knobel, now declared that he will fight the "murder" charge which is held out against him to the limit and that he feels as though he will be freed when the evidence is all turned in and the jury has made its report.

Backing this announcement, Amann declares that he has hired an attorney, Thomas J. Morgan one of the leading criminal lawyers of Chicago, who has represented Amann at various times, and who succeeded in winning his libel case against the Union Traction Company.

Morgan spent an entire afternoon with Amann at the jail, and during his stay it is learned he took notes of all statements which Amann had rendered since the time of his arrest at Highwood three weeks ago. Those who have conversed with Amann of late are of the opinion that when the case comes for trial, Amann will declare that he was falsifying when he related the facts connected with the murdering of the lad, and that he will lay blame onto a high-wayman or an enemy of the family.

Had Amann died as the wounds inflicted by the knife which ended the lad's life, he would, according to reports, have been willing to take the blame instead of implicating others, but now when the nose of a hangman's line stares him in the face, he has turned coward and will do almost anything to free himself of the blame.

Amann was given a $35,000 judgment against the Union Traction Company of Chicago but he has been unable to collect any of this judgment as yet.

GRAYSLAKE POSTMISTRESS ACQUITTED

Miss Anna B. Whitmore, postmistress at Grayslake, didn't open and read the love missives that passed between the Rev. Charles E. Havener, pastor of the Grayslake Congregational church, and his fiancée after all.

The postmistress was vindicated after a day of evidence in the court of United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote, and went away perfectly happy along with a great many villagers—school teacher friends and deacons and members of the church choir. Most of them sympathized with her though the trustees had passed a resolution backing up the preacher.

Incidentally it developed from the testimony of Miss Mary Culvin of Fort Wayne, Ind., the fiancée, that she had been married secretly to Dr. Havener on Tuesday, May 19, at Wheaton.

It appeared from the testimony that Pastor Havener himself had talked pretty freely of his betrothed, his approaching nuptials, and the difficulty of supporting a wife and children—on $700 a year.

The view he had expressed in three letters concerning the inadvisability of raising a family on a small salary became generally known among the merry villagers. This angered the preacher, who accused Miss Whitmore of opening his letters, claiming that was only way his race suicide vels could have been made public.

WEAKNESS OF GREAT STRENGTH.

Perfect Health Not Consistent with High Muscular Development.

It is a curious fact that perfect health is not consistent with high muscular development. Professional athletes and all men who acquire phenomenal strength seem to lose in length of life and activity what they gain for a few years of record-breaking powers. I was privileged to see, on several occasions, Louis Cyr, the Canadian giant, who broke all weight-lifting records. He weighed 320 pounds, and was all solid bone and muscle. I saw him hold his wife out at arm's length with one hand. I saw him raise a 300-pound barrel from the floor to his shoulder, using only one hand and arm. I saw him get down on all fours under a platform bearing 4,000 pounds of big men selected from the audience, and he raised the platform with his mighty back. Yet this remarkable man was muscle-bound and crippled at 37, when he should have been at the height of his wonderful powers.

Kennedy, the oarsman, who won a diamond belt for lifting with his hands from the floor, absolutely without apparatus, a 1,000-pound weight, was used up and crippled before he was 40. Dowie, professional strong man and teacher of athletics, wore himself out and died at 47.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Many Guilty Escape.

Criminal records kept in New York county for the last six years show that a trifle more than one-half of the persons charged with crimes are found guilty, while expert opinion is agreed that not two out of 100 are innocent.

BREAK INTO A MAIL BOX

Sons of Prominent Waukegan Families Maliciously Tore Letters Into Bits

THREW THEM IN RAVINE

Police Were Notified and Succeeded in Capturing One of the Youngsters No Action To Be Started

Two boys, one eight years old and the other nine, both sons of prominent North Side families in Waukegan, were Tuesday afternoon detected in the act of robbing a mail box in the yard of a North Side resident whose name is omitted by request. The police were notified and one of the youthful destroyers of personal property was captured.

Late Tuesday afternoon a woman who lives near the residence called up the police and asked them to come to that location as there were two boys there that were breaking into a mail box.

Officer Belinski was detailed on the case and arrived in time to see the youngsters tearing up the mail and throwing it into the ravine that runs by the house. Their actions were purely malicious as far as could be observed. When they saw the officer approaching they started to scamper away. One managed to make his escape but the other was caught.

Later in the day the woman who had informed the police of the boys' actions went down into the ravine and picked up the scattered bits of the letters, giving them over to the police who mailed them back to the owner. The police say that the letters were in such a condition that it would be practically impossible to read them.

The woman when called up by telephone stated that the letter was without value and as far as she is concerned the matter will be dropped.

DRUNKEN DOWIE WRESTLES WITH POLICE OFFICERS

Mrs. Grace Field, who resides with Deaconess Paddock of Zion City, Saturday afternoon celebrated her forty-ninth birthday by coming to Waukegan, where, according to her own statements, she started bowling up the "high ones" which eventually landed her behind the bars.

Leaving Zion City on Decoration Day morning after attending Zion church, Mrs. Field started for Waukegan in search of a spoon of thread.

While standing on the corner of Washington and Genesee streets by chance she happened to meet an old "partner" who had worked with her at the Highwood Hotel some three years ago.

That seems to be all the fair Zionite can remember, except that she had a few drinks.

When picked up on the sidewalk by one of the police officers, who treated the drunken woman as though she were ill, Mrs. Field handed him one in the eye with her left hand. That was all there was to it. The officer was forced to carry her to the county jail, and there they were met by Sheriff Griffin, who got a poke in the shin for his kindness.

This morning when arraigned before the police justice, Mrs. Field pleaded guilty, but begged to be allowed her freedom. After she had promised to go and never get drunk any more in Waukegan she was turned loose.

Mrs. Field claims that the only headache she experienced after the lengthy jag was one that originated in the county jail, and which she claims was caused by a duel sang by the famous lake county jail choir.

SHURTLEFF IN THE RACE

Will Seek to be Representative of McHenry—Tiffany Probable Candidate

A STRONG FIGHT COMING

Lake County by Sticking Together May be Able to Elect Both Representative and Senator

The following article from the Waukegan Sun on the political mixup in the 8th Senatorial district shows the hot fight which McHenry and Boone counties are waging, and should it continue, Senator A. N. Tiffany of Antioch, will probably be a candidate, and we look for an announcement from him in the near future.

It is now stated that E. D. Shurtleff, just speaker of the state legislature, will make the run for representative again, and this announcement, made unofficially, complicates the political situation and verifies the statement that Lake, Boone and McHenry counties will no longer elect in rotation as they have in former years.

It is fact custom is consigned to oblivion and precedent is smashed to smithereens, the game being each man for himself and each county for itself.

Lake, Boone and McHenry are individually going to elect whom they can and the scheme of taking things in turn has had the axe applied because of the new direct vote primary which makes any agreement between counties obviously impossible.

Lake county has the largest vote and the balance of power and if her republicans stick together they can elect both a senator and a representative from Lake.

The candidates for representative are Attorney A. K. Stearns and David Jackson. The candidate for senator will be brought on later it is understood.

It is pretty certain also that the Lake county vote will elect Shurtleff, who has announced his candidacy.

There are strong fights coming for representative and senator in every one of the three counties that formerly constituted the political triple alliance.

Menach is not at all out of the race for senator in McHenry in spite of all that has been said, and will make a hot run against Olson, who will also go some. There will be two or three senatorial candidates in Boone also, and some for representative. The splitting of the support in these counties makes Lake's chances so much the better if she puts up a strong man for the senate and sticks to him.

DEALT FAIRLY WITH NATIVES.

Writer Denies That Pilgrim Fathers Oppressed the Indians.

Small wits have a fashion of saying that the Pilgrims, on reaching these shores, first fell on their knees and then on the aborigines. The simple fact is, declares Rev. Frederick A. Noble in "The Pilgrims," that these natives of the land were dealt with in a way to meet at once the conditions of justice and mercy to savage tribes and of the safety and growth to Christian colonies.

The Pilgrims ministered to the Indians in sickness. They arbitrated their quarrels and lessened jealousies and frictions between tribes. They saw that red men who had been employed by white men to do any kind of work were properly remunerated for their services.

Improper advantages were not to be taken of them in trade. When oppressed by cold or threatened by starvation, and they made appeals for succor, these untutored savages were never turned unaided from the doors of their civilized neighbors. When discipline was necessary, the Pilgrims knew how to administer it. But justice and kindness were the watchwords which guided them, and which characterized the Pilgrims in their dealings with the Indians. The Indian was helped in every way in which he could be helped.

Palfrey says: "The shield of the law was held over him with assiduous solicitude. Whoever could be proved to have wronged him was made to feel that he had a watchful guardian, severe in measures of redress. The hurtful engagements into which he was most liable to be entrapped this law declared to be null from the beginning, and special opportunities for humane and tender treatment of him were generously used."—Youth's Companion.

DEATH OF W. H. WARNER

Who Passed Away Tuesday Morning After a Long and Painful Illness.

On Tuesday morning at his home north of town occurred the death of Mr. W. H. Warner, a well known resident of this community, after a long and painful illness which lasted over a period of five months.

William Henry Warner was born at Salem, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, on the fifteenth day of February, 1852, and moved with his parents to Rochester, Minnesota, in the year of 1855. In the year of 1859 they left Rochester, and settled in the town of Pickwick, in the same state. There he grew to manhood, but often paid long visits to this vicinity where by his genial, happy disposition he made many warm friends. In the year of 1882 he was married to Miss Viola Beman, of Winona, Minn., and made their home in that vicinity, until after her death which occurred in June of 1894. After being left alone in the world, he decided to come to Illinois to reside, and accordingly located at Grass Lake, in the winter of 1895.

On the twelfth day of September, 1901, he was united in marriage to Miss Lydia Wilson, who survives him.

About a year ago his health began to fail and on the twenty-ninth day of December, 1907, he was obliged to take to his bed from which he never arose. Through all the five long, weary months of untold pain he was a most patient sufferer, never complaining at his lot, and ever in the hope of regaining his health and strength, never losing faith in his recovery until the last few days of his life.

On Tuesday morning at fifteen minutes past two o'clock death came as a relief to his sufferings and he quietly passed away at the age of 55 years, 3 months and 17 days. He is survived by his wife, one sister, Mrs. L. M. Cribb of this place and one brother at Winona, Minn., besides nieces, nephews, and many other relatives and friends.

The funeral was held at the Antioch M. E. church on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, with Rev. F. R. McNamer officiating, and interment in the Angola, cemetery at Lake Villa.

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF

The Eighth Senatorial District

I desire to announce that I shall be a candidate for the Lower House of Representatives of the General Assembly, from the Eighth Senatorial District, subject to the Republican Primaries to be held August 8, 1908.

In the 44th General Assembly, 1905, and the 45th General Assembly, 1907—in substantially four sessions—the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county have had the honor and the influence of filling the Speakership of the Lower House. How fairly or how poorly I have filled that position I can only leave to the judgment of others, upon the record, and to the opinion of those who have served in the House.

That there is a very good opportunity for the 8th Senatorial District and McHenry county to fill the position of Speaker in the Lower House for a third successive term, and that it is the request of many of the present members who are candidates for re-election, are the causes of my candidacy at the present time.

I decided, I shall vote upon the question of the United States Senatorship as instructed by the Republicans of this District, in the primaries of August 8th.

Very respectfully,
EDWARD D. SHURTLEFF.

NO MUSIC IN THE JAPANESE.

As a People They Are Not Moved by Melodious Sounds.

There is no music in Japan except that made by the birds, the wind, the running streams and the rearing waterfalls, says a writer in the Milwaukee Sentinel. The people have no music in them, they do not sing or even whistle, or play any musical instrument worthy of the name. They are not moved by the "concord of sweet sounds." They have a few rude instruments, but the sounds they give forth are harsh, inharmonious and altogether unmusical. There is a dinner band at the Grand hotel, Yokohama, and there was a brass band at the Imperial garden party, the only bands I have heard in all Japan. Even at the gelsa dances, the most popular in Japan, the music is primitive and discordant. And the dances are worse than the music. It is not in any sense dancing as we know it, it is simply a series of posturing, accompanied by the flitting fans, flags, or handkerchiefs, but lacking the motion and inspiration that thrills and fascinates in the merry mazes of the cotillon and the waltz. The religious dances are slow, dignified and impressive, but have none of the life and intoxication that gives interest and charm to the participant or beholder.

MURDERED WHILE AT CHURCH

Mrs. E. H. Orvis is Murdered by a Paroled Asylum Inmate

WAS COUSIN OF J. K. ORVIS

Was a Resident of Oakfield, Wis.—Three Shots Fired One Proving Fatal—Murderer Was Captured

Mrs. E. H. Orvis of Oakfield, Wis., a cousin of Atty J. K. Orvis of Waukegan, was most brutally murdered at the doorstep of the First Methodist church of Oakfield Sunday morning at the close of the services.

The act is said to be the termination of a love affair of long standing. Mrs. Orvis died in the arms of her husband. The murderer fired three shots, the second of which was fatal.

Attorney Orvis first learned of the murder late Sunday evening when a communication from the Wisconsin city brought the sad message to the attorney's home.

Because she opposed his suit for the hand of her daughter, Grant Poole shot and killed Mrs. E. H. Orvis at the threshold of the Methodist church at Oakfield. A horror stricken congregation, which was just leaving the church, witnessed the murder. After an all-day search, Poole was captured late Sunday night by a posse.

Just as she was greeting the Rev. Sabin Halsey, pastor of the church, Mrs. Orvis was shot by Poole. The bullet entered her back. Wheeling about, Poole brandished the weapon at the panic stricken congregation and men, women and children clambered over pews and dodged behind pillars in their scramble for safety. The assailant then placed the revolver in his pocket, ran through the entry and disappeared around a corner of the church.

Dr. Halsey begged his people to kneel and pray for the dying woman and Mrs. Orvis sank into the arms of her husband, while the pastor and members of the congregation prayed beside her.

Poole, who is thirty-five years old, was sent to the northern asylum three years ago after having attempted to commit suicide. He was paroled several months ago and returned to live with his father, Moses Poole, on a farm near Oakfield.

ANCIENT PARIS MILL AT WORK.

Longchamp Landmark Again Useful After a Rest of Two Centuries.

Few of the throngs of Americans who go to Paris fail to visit the Bois de Boulogne; so thousands of Americans know the Longchamp windmill, especially those who go to the Grand Prix or any of the other races at Longchamp.

A few days ago Parisians walking or driving in the Bois were surprised to see the wings of this old thirteenth century mill turning in the breeze that swept the Longchamp award. It is two centuries since the mill ceased to grind grain, and while it has been continued as one of the picturesque and admired objects of this beautiful landscape it has not been regarded as a machine of utility.

The mill, however, has been equipped with four pumps, and now when the wind serves these pumps increase the water supply which furnishes the great cascade of the Bois de Boulogne. So this interesting monument in a beautiful stretch of parkland not only adds to the picturesque of the Longchamp end of the Bois, but serves a practical use in enhancing the charm of a neighboring spot in the great park.

The Girl with the Forehead.

She is almost extinct. Whether it is that the present browless state is due to a revolutionary movement against the bulging foreheads of transcendental ladies or whether it is that some astute woman who had not been granted a forehead followed the tactics of the fox without a tail, and convinced all her followers that it was modish to be without, the fact remains that hardly one woman in a hundred acknowledges that intellectual area.

Consequently to the one woman who does allow you to behold all the lovely lines made by the hair is due the same feeling of gratitude inspired by the woman who doesn't tell you that she had a hundred authors in her youth.

Mr. Barnes, American

By Archibald Claverling Gunter
A Sequel to Mr. Barnes of New York

Author of "Mr. Barnes of New York," "Mr. Potter of Texas," "That Frenchman," Etc.

SYNOPSIS.

Burton H. Barnes, a wealthy American tourist, rescues the young English lieutenant, Edward Gerard Anstruther, and his Corsican bride, Marina, daughter of the Follis, from the murderous vendetta, understanding that his reward is to be the hand of the girl he loves, Edna Anstruther, sister of the English lieutenant. The four fly from Ajaccio to Marseilles on board the French steamer, Constantine. The vendetta pursues them, and as the market is about to board the train for London at Marseilles, Marina is handed a mysterious note which causes her to collapse and necessitates a postponement of the journey. Barnes and Edna are married. Soon after their wedding Barnes' bride disappears. Barnes discovers the husband has been kidnapped and taken to Corsica. The groom secures a fishing vessel and is about to start in pursuit of his bride. Barnes is compelled to depart for Corsica without delay, and so he leaves the search for Marina to her husband while he goes to hunt for Edna. Just before Barnes rescues his wife from the Corsicans, when Barnes and Marina arrive in Corsica he is given a note written by Edna. Informing him that the kidnapping is for the purpose of entrapping Barnes so the vendetta may kill him. Barnes and Marina have a narrow escape from their search for Edna. They come in sight of her and her captors in the Corsican mountain wilds just as night approaches. In seeking shelter from a storm the couple enter a hermitage and there to their amazement they discover Tomasso, the foster father of Marina, who was supposed to have been killed by De Bellos's soldiers, and for whose death Barnes had been vendettized. Tomasso narrates that Marina's husband did not kill her brother. Many wrongs are righted. Barnes is surprised in the hermitage by Rochini and Romano, the two detectives who had been searching for him to murder him for his money. The bandits attempt to take away Marina. Barnes darts into the door. The bandits start to pursue him, but as they reach the door both are laid low by Barnes' revolver. Members of the Bellecaccia clan are ordered for his great service to the community in killing the hated Rochini and Romano. The released Edna is promised to Barnes by the Bellecaccia with Salicetti's plot against her husband and against him at the coming election. Barnes is taken to the manor of the Bellecaccia to meet Edna. She arrives to meet her husband. Barnes enters the room to greet his wife. Barnes is bewildered to find the adventures of La Bellecaccia substituted for the American's bride by a shrewd plot. Lieutenant Anstruther arrives to find Marina and learns that she has been lured away by another without his knowledge. The two start in search of Marina. Barnes and Edna take different roads in their search.

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

As he gallops from the little hamlet, some cyclamen branches greet him, he urges on his steed.

And what a ride it is, under the great trees of La Castagniccia, where chestnuts big as eggs drop upon him, the giant chestnuts that fed Paolo's patriot army, the broad of Corsica, each dozen trees being a peasant maiden's marriage dowry.

But though the woods are all chestnuts, Edwin still sees in his road cyclamen branches, slightly withered now, their fragrance fading, and hope grows higher in his heart.

So he rides along the parklike vales of La Castagniccia, and before him is the green of the great Bavella forest fading away down the hillsides toward the distant and still unseen Tuscan sea.

Here Edwin checks his horse, springs off and picks up a cyclamen branch, and as he rides along, looking at the flowers, suddenly ejaculates: "Jove, how fresh their perfume and plucked two days since."

But the lately cut flowers give no warning to the sailor; he is too eager now. Pausing at the little village of Plocia, Edwin steps into the inn to ask some questions and hears news that makes him frenzied.

The landlady, delighted at his liberal hand, tells him to avoid the communal where the village is going on. "The Lucchese" have got full of wine and are having a riot in that direction. They are perfect devils, these fellows from Luca over across the sea that Danella imported to work upon his estates here."

"Count Cipriano Danella has estates here?" asks Edwin excitedly.

"Yes, now it is Cipriano. Down toward Cernone, where the cliffs run into the sea, the only place where it is not sticky and they have no lagoons. You can know it by the Genoese watch tower that was in ruins, but the count some years ago had repaired and made habitable."

"It's curious I never heard anyone mention Cipriano's properties here," mutters the sailor.

"Oh, possibly not. Till a fortnight since, they belonged to Misso Danella, the dead one, but Count Cipriano has now taken possession of them."

"He is there?"

"Why I think so. A boy who came up the pass yesterday said the new count had come there in a vessel."

"He is there at present?"

"Quite sure!" laughs the man. "Cipriano himself rode through here yesterday escorting a lady with some of his followers."

"Aha, in a carriage driven by an old Corsican?"

"She was in a carriage, but was not driven by an old Corsican; a boy whipped the horses."

"She was young and beautiful?"

"My eyes are old, I could not see well, Signore. The carriage came rapidly past me, three or four riding along. The lady looked as if she would say some words; she rose almost as if to spring out, but something in the carriage seemed to check her, and they whipped up the horses. Oh, Signore, how terrible you look!"

"The quickest way to Cipriano's estates?" asked Anstruther hoarsely.

"Down the road there, through the forest, over two ranges of hills and his land begins. But be careful how you go that way; the 'Lucchese' are just beyond the village. Hear them? They are rioting now," as Neapolitan outcries and Tuscan execrations and oaths and the rattle of stones are heard further to the east. "Best take a by-path."

Edwin takes the road pointed out to him; he wishes no delay with these Italian workmen, whom, imported in great numbers into the island, the Corsicans would probably butcher to a man did not their natural laziness make them prefer to let the "Lucchese" live and work for them.

But the by-path doesn't rid him entirely of the "Lucchese." Just after he has left the village he finds himself confronted by some hundred Italian workmen, who threateningly demand drink money, and unfortunately noting the cyclamen flower in the sailor's hand, the red being the color of the candidate they do not favor, they rush at him with upraised pitchforks and scythes.

But the lieutenant, remembering Napoleon's recipe for mobs, pulls out his pistol. Dodging one volley of stones, some of which come dangerously near to him, he dashes on, and there are two wounded "Lucchese" as he rides away—and three empty cylinders in his revolver.

Here a broken cyclamen branch makes him forget all else, and riding hurriedly, after some hours of mountain vistas, he reaches a little hill and gazes at a view which causes him for one moment to pause. The dark emergence of the woods descending quite one thought in his heart: "Is my wife upstairs?"

With his revolver ready in his hand, he dashes rapidly up the circular stone stairway, upon which open little loop holes. After nightfall, these give him no light. But the illumination of a lamp or candle comes down the stair way as he passes higher up. He calls: "Marina, are you there?" and enters the chamber at the top of the tower.

It is lighted by a lamp and fitted up for occupancy. There is a little bed in it, some old chairs and an oskee table. Upon the bed are a bunch of cyclamen flowers and articles of woman's apparel. He flies to examine them. They are not those of his wife. Upon the table is an envelope addressed: "Lieut. Edwin Gerard Anstruther."

Its contents, written in the same hand as that of Marina's letter, makes the young man's eyes roll in his head: "Mrs. C. H. Anstruther."

"I have been watching your coming, over the hills, following the cyclamen flowers the charming Marina so natively dropped into the path to bring you here—and am prepared for your visit."

"I thought you would be attracted to the light in this chamber when all else was dark."

As you read this you are already trapped. Do you think I will spare anyone who brought about my brother's death? Ask Tomasso, who is already gone."

Do you imagine, English lieutenant, who call yourself husband to the woman I have decreed shall be mine, that you shall be scathless—"

The sharp clang of the doors below makes Edwin drop the letter and spring like a topman down the stairs.

Though he is quick, somebody is quicker. The strong doors are closed. As he reaches the lower step, he hears steel bars falling into their sockets outside. From without a jeering laugh makes him know this has been planned. This is confirmed by the creaky turning of a great key.

"Unlock this door!" he commands in a quavered tone.

"Diable, not after having had so much trouble to trap you," is returned in almost Parisian French.

Without a word Anstruther discharges his revolver into the lock of the door. He has exhausted his three remaining cartridges, when the impingement of the bullets shows that the lock is protected by steel and his attempts abortive.

He is interrupted by loud cries of terror from almost beneath his feet: "Hang it, quit that shooting! Do you want to blow us up? I saw that scar-faced chap shove sticks of nitro-glycerine all around in the crevices. This tower's mined, and that scoundrel has got a fuse or electric wire running to it."

His own language with a Yankee twang coming from below startles Edwin. He has some matches in his pocket, strikes one, looks round and sees a trap door in the flooring almost beneath his feet. He pulls it up and peers down. His eyes glare into those of another man gazing up from an underground vault. Holding the match so that he can see the face he gasps: "Great guns, Emory! I thought you dead!"

"I'm almost dead," growls the detective, Edwin, almost stunned by surprise, gazing at him petrified. "By the living Jingo, where's Barnes? I guessed some of you'd find me out," adds the Plateron man in relieved voice. "I reckoned you'd rescue a chap who's been risking his life and getting a good deal the worst of it in your employ."

"I came to find my wife," cries Edwin shortly. "Have you seen her?"

"Oh, there's a lady, I think, in the house."

"In the house? And they have cooped me up in this tower," Anstruther frantically assaults the door again.

"Oh, I reckoned they'd be doing something underhand to you," calls Emory. "Come down and help me out first."

"Why don't you come up? There's a ladder."

"I can't. Dash it, they've got leg irons on me. They feed me on soup and bread and don't even leave a spoon with me to dig out. I was seized and smuggled from St. Tropez in that fishing craft that followed your yacht just the moment I had it fixed so I'd bear their plans. They're crafty as snakes."

"A Pinkerton man like you captured in this disgraceful way!" says Anstruther sternly. For he thinks had Emory kept his eyes open and done his duty, Edna would have escaped abduction and the rest never have come to pass.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Easy Entertaining. One woman who does her own work and yet likes to entertain a good deal has brought order out of chaos and made the work lighter for herself by limiting her dinner to three hot dishes. She serves first cold cantaloupe, grape fruit or oysters, according to the season; then meat, potatoes and one vegetable. Salad and dessert are prepared beforehand, and so is the coffee. She serves all but the three hot dishes—which, of course must be brought from the kitchen—from a small serving table at her side, which has two shelves beneath it and an outstanding bracket shelf for the clean and used dishes. The coffee, in a French coffee pot, stands on one of the brackets of the serving table and boils merrily until required.

Some Reasons for Her Fear.

The wife of the Pittsburgh millionaire reached her breakfast table in fear and trepidation. The waiting maid offered her the morning paper. "No, Marie; never give me those when John is out of town on business. I can't bear to think what they might contain." And she slipped her coat, fee with heavy eyes.—Judge.

A KENTUCKY CASE.

That Will Interest All Suffering Women.

Mrs. Della Meanes, 328 E. Front St., Maysville, Ky., says: "Seven years ago I began to notice sharp pain in the kidneys and a bearing down sensation through the hips, dull headache and dizzy spells. Dropsy appeared, and my feet and ankles swelled so I could not get my shoes on."

I was in misery, and had despaired of ever getting cured when I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. One box helped me so much that I kept on until entirely cured."

Too Much for Pa.

The visitor to the home of a well-known Hoosier state author found his three youngsters romping in the hallway.

"What are you playing, boys?" he inquired.

"We are playing pirates," elucidated the smallest.

"Pirates? Why, how can you play pirates in Indiana? There are no seas bordering on this state."

"Oh, we don't need any sea. We are literary pirates, like pa."

And five minutes later a chorus of yells from behind the barn told that the hand that wields the pen can also wield the shingle.

Self-Deceit.

Margie is six years old and her family are Presbyterians. Some of Margie's little friends are Episcopalians, and Margie was much impressed with their Lenten sacrifices.

On Ash Wednesday she announced that she would eat no candy for 40 days. A few hours later saw Margie with a large peppermint stick.

"Why, Margie," said her friend, "I thought you had given up candy for Lent."

"I did mean to," admitted Margie, "but I've changed my mind. I'm giving up profane language."—Montreal Herald.

Triumph of Mind.

Victim of Delusion—Doctor, I'm awfully afraid I'm going to have brain fever.

Doctor—Pooh, pooh, my dear friend! That's all an illusion of the senses. There is no such thing as brain fever. You have no fever, you have no brain fever, no material substance upon which such a wholly imaginary and supposititious thing as a fever could find any base of operation.

Victim—Oh, doctor, what a load you have taken from my—from my—I have a mind, haven't I, doctor?

THE FIRST TASTE

Learned to Drink Coffee When a Baby.

If parents realized the fact that coffee contains a drug—caffeine—which is especially harmful to children, they would doubtless hesitate before giving the babies coffee to drink.

"When I was a child in my mother's arms and first began to nibble things at the table, mother used to give me sips of coffee. As my parents used coffee exclusively at meals I never knew there was anything to drink but coffee and water."

"And so I contracted the coffee habit early. I remember when quite young, the continual use of coffee so affected my parents that they tried roasting wheat and barley, then ground it in the coffee-mill, as a substitute for coffee."

"But it did not taste right and they went back to coffee again. That was long before Postum was ever heard of. I continued to use coffee until I was 27, and when I got into office work, I began to have nervous spells. Especially after breakfast I was so nervous I could scarcely attend to my correspondence."

"At night, after having coffee for supper, I could hardly sleep, and on rising in the morning would feel weak and nervous."

"A friend persuaded me to try Postum. My wife and I did not like it at first, but later when boiled good and strong it was fine. Now we would not give up Postum for the best coffee we ever tasted."

"I can now get good sleep, am free from nervousness and headaches. I recommend Postum to all coffee drinkers."

"There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Dattle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in papers.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

IS IT POSSIBLE?

And who were the people who first thought of music, nuntie?"

"Why, child, they are considered to be prehistoric."

"Oh, nuntie, how well you do remember!"

BAD ITCHING HUMOR.

Limbs Below the Knees Were Raw—Feet Swollen—Sleep Broken—Cured in 2 Days by Cuticura.

"Some two months ago I had a humor break out on my limbs below my knees. They came to look like raw beefsteak, all red, and no one knows how they itched and burned. They were so swollen that I could not get my shoes on for a week or more. I used five or six different remedies and got no help, only when applying them the burning was worse and the itching less. For two or three weeks the suffering was intense and during that time I did not sleep an hour at a time. Then one morning I tried a bit of Cuticura. From the moment it touched me the itching was gone and I have not felt a bit of it since. The swelling went down and in two days I had my shoes on and was about as usual. George B. Farley, 60 South State St., Concord, N. H., May 14, 1907."

Labor-Saving Device.

"Yes, siree," said the freckled lad proudly, "my dad's a genius, he is."

"That so?" responded the weary coffee-mill agent.

"Well, I should say so. Dad noticed that every time the old hand came around Sunday mornings he began wagging his stumpy tail."

"Anything unusual in that, sonny?"

"No, not for the hound, mister, but dad got up the idea of attaching a shoe brush and a whisk broom to Bowser's tail. Now when dad is ready to go to meelin' his shoes are shined and the legs of his trousers are dusted without his moving a finger. By gosh! Dad's got as much brains as a furrier diplomat."

A Poor System.

Eustace Milos, the noted English athlete and food expert, said at a recent vegetarian dinner in Chicago:

"They who, with rich sauces and exciting meats, weaken their digestion in the effort to strengthen their bodies, practice a very poor system indeed."

"Such people are like the embarrassed motorist who pawned his automobile in order to raise $250 for a new set of tires."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Dr. J. C. Chase's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Chase & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Sold by Druggists, etc. Address: F. J. CHASE & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Take Care! Family Kid for constipation.

Meeting the Unusual.

Mr. Slinic—Do you see those three people walking together down there?

Mrs. Getup—Yes; who are they?

Mr. Slinic—One is a somnambulist, one is a kleptomaniac and one is a plagiarist.

Mr. Slinic—Law sakes! I never dreamed we were going to meet so many brainy people in a bunch.—Baltimore American.

Bookkeeping.

The United States Institute of Modern Accounting, of Chicago, has issued a "booklet" showing how you may become a Head-bookkeeper or Public Accountant, which it sends to those interested free of charge. Why not become a better bookkeeper and thus increase your earning power? Address: Chas. A. Sweetland, Supt., Suite 8, Boylston bldg., Chicago.

The Contrary Child.

Mrs. Poppley—Little George won't take milk at all now. He used to take it but—

Mr. Poppley (crossly)—No, and it's all on account of your imprudence.

"My imprudence?"

Mr. Poppley—Yes, you allowed him to hear you say it was good for him.

KNOWN WHAT THE JOB MEANT.

Angry Citizen Put Ordeal Up to Street Car Company.

Not long ago there entered the office of the superintendent of a trolley line in Detroit an angry citizen, demanding "justice" in no uncertain terms.

In response to the official's gentle inquiry touching the cause of the demand, the angry citizen explained that on the day previous as his wife was boarding one of the company's cars, the conductor thereof had stepped on his spouse's dress, tearing from it more than a yard of material.

"I can't see that you are to blame for that," protested the superintendent. "What do you expect us to do, get her a new dress?"

"No, sir, I do not," rejoined the angry citizen, brandishing a piece of cloth. "What I propose is that you people shall match this material!"—Harper's Weekly.

LEAP YEAR, AGAIN.

Heavy Lady—Algy, for four years I have waited for this chance. Be mine, and have all the comforts of a home.

In the Same Boat.

"We got some sad cases," said the attendant at the Lupton lunatic asylum to the interested visitor, and opened the door of the first cell.

Inside was a man sitting on a three-legged stool, gazing vacantly at the wall.

"His is an unhappy story," said the attendant. "He was in love with a girl, but she married another man, and he lost his reason from grief!"

"They stole out softly, closing the door behind them, and proceeded to the next inmate."

This cell was thickly padded, and the man within was stark, staring mad.

"Who is this?" inquired the visitor. "This?" repeated the attendant. "This is the other man!"—Tadler.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS.

ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS.

A REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPER.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY

A. B. JOHNSON, Editor and Proprietor

By Mail, One Dollar per Year, in Advance

Telephone, Antioch No. 402.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This month four years ago the United States took hold of the Panama Canal Zone, and began the solution of a problem mainly to be solved by hard and honest work.

We heartily concur in the opinion recently expressed by a New York contemporary that, Thomas C. Platt in the Senate is a more revolting spectacle than the book maker at the race track.

Accurate figures are not yet obtainable, but careful estimate put the total appropriations of this session of Congress at $1,020,000,000. This is $100,000,000 more than has been expended by any other Congress.

This session of Congress has broken all records in the number of bills introduced, the total being 29,125. Thirty-eight treaties have been ratified and made public, more than had been ratified during the twenty preceding.

In a current magazine Speaker Cannon has an article on, "How a bill becomes a law." The general public would be much more interested in an article on why bills do not become laws. Speaker Cannon could furnish more information on this subject perhaps, than any other one man.

The proposition by the National Council of Commerce to establish in Washington an agency of the council for the dissemination of information respecting domestic and foreign commerce is one that should meet with the hearty support of all. It is estimated by Secretary Strauss of the Department of Commerce and Labor and by the maintenance of a proper agency in Washington, in order fully to take advantage of important trade information, would cost the merchants and manufacturers of the country only about $20,000 a year.

The friends of the Secretary of the Treasury, George Baucus Cortelyou, are making an active canvass to ascertain the sentiment toward him as a candidate for the Vice Presidential nomination on the Republican ticket. Secretary Cortelyou stands high with labor leaders, having risen by his own efforts and merits from a comparatively humble place in the government service to one of exceptional honor and he enjoys an unsullied record as a public man. Here represents, also, both elements in the party, having been the friend of Hanna and McKinley and an appointee of Roosevelt. Secretary Cortelyou has not aligned himself with any faction in his State, New York, but is popular with all. Representative Sherman is, also, mentioned as a New Yorker of Vice Presidential proportions, and while his friends have not made much advance thus far with their campaign in his behalf, they point to the highly creditable record of Mr. Sherman in the House, his geniality and personal popularity. Mr. Sherman's work on the Congressional Campaign Committee has won for him the high regard and loyal support of all Republican members of Congress.

Water as a Headache Cure.

"The best cure I know of for a headache is to wash your face," said a bright looking man. "Yes, I believe suddenly to cleanse your face with cold water will open up the pores and probably start the blood in circulation, and I know it will relieve you of a headache in a jiffy. I have tried it myself a great many times and have always been successful. There is something in the nature of a stimulant in the cold water treatment that braces me right up. My head when it aches gets hot and throbs, and the water makes it cool and fresh. I have a theory, too, that people don't wash their faces nearly enough, anyhow, in these days of dusty asphalt streets and soft coal smoke. People will be much better off with their pores kept open and clear of all dust and dirt, and there is nothing so good for the skin as soap and water."

If one feels dull and spiritless, in the spring or early summer, they call it "Spring Fever". But there is no fever—usually. It is the after effect of our winter habits. The nerves are mostly at fault. Tired, worn nerves leave us languid, listless, and without spirit or ambition. A few doses of Dr. Shoop's Restorative will absolutely and quickly change all of these depressing symptoms. The restorative won't bring you back to full health in a day or two, but it will do enough in 48 hours to satisfy you that the remedy is reaching that "tired spot". Druggists everywhere are advising its use as a splendid and prompt general tonic. It gives more vim and more spirit to the spoonful than any other known nerve or constitutional tonic. It sharpens a failing appetite, aids digestion, frees sluggish livers and kidneys, and brings new life, strength and ambition. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by J. H. Swann.

ROMANCE OF BURIED PICTURES.

Long-Hidden Works of Great Artists Strangely Brought to Light.

The romantic story of the picture purchased at a London auction, which on expert examination proved to be painted over a Rembrandt worth $40,000, is curiously reminiscent of the discovery of a Correggio under similar circumstances. A good many years ago two picture restorers, Lovara and Huntersperg, bought at an art sale in Rome a number of old pictures in order to provide themselves with canvases for repainting. In the division of the spoils Huntersperg received an indifferent picture of flowers, on which he painted a study of a hand. This picture he offered to Lovara, who, on close examination, found that the new ground scaled off and that underneath were traces of a figure painted in a style that denoted the hand of a master. Replacing the scales, and concealing his discovery, he purchased the picture for little more than the value of the canvases. Removing the two grounds he disclosed an exceedingly clever painting by Correggio, which he sold to the earl of Bristol for $7,500.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered to the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by J. H. Swann.

Lightning Magnetizes Rock.

When lightning strikes a rock it makes magnets. Magnetized places, that is, spots attracting iron, like the lodestone, often are noticed in volcanic rocks. They have been ascribed by Folgerhalter to lightning, but he knew of no magnetized rocks that had been tested before the lightning struck. An instance has now been described. Two investigators had been testing rocks near Mount Etna when, during a September night, lightning fashed a telephone wire from which an uninsulated earth wire ran along a basaltic wall which had previously shown a trace of magnetism. Next morning the stones of the wall were strongly magnetic for five inches on both sides of the wire, the polarity indicating that the current passed upwards.

Secret Shrines.

Sometimes I think that it is almost impudent to wonder about one's friends when one is certain beyond wondering that they all have secret places in their hearts filled with delight and tears.—Zola Gals.

Lung Capacity.

The normal capacity of the lungs of the average man is 230 cubic inches; 100 of these contain what is called residual air, 100 are complementary air and the remaining 30 represent the tidal air—the ebb and flow of breathing. By a deep respiration it would be possible to get 100 cubic inches more. The average man breathes from 15 to 17 times a minute, and in 24 hours his inspiration and expiration would fill a balloon of 850 cubic feet capacity.

Thinks It Saved His Life.

Leslie M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swann's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Evolution of Travel

First—Walking.
Second—Stage coach.
Third—Railroad.
Today—By telephone. For economy, speed, comfort it exceeds all others. The most convenient way to visit Chicago. Chicago Telephone Company.

HISTORIAN AN IRRITABLE MAN.

Freeman's Temper Flared Up Over Intellectual Differences.

Freeman, the historian, it was said, was apt to grow irritable over matters of intellectual difference. One day he was at the Macmillans, when the conversation turned upon the subject of Ireland. Mr. Macmillan said that, for his part, he was in favor of granting autonomy.

Whereupon Freeman began to growl at the use of a Greek word.

"Why can't you speak English?" demanded he, "and say homo rule, instead of speaking Greek, which you don't know?"

One of the guests flushed with anger and ventured to reprove Freeman, calling his attention to the respect due their host, and at the same time paying tribute to Mr. Macmillan's remarkable abilities. But although Freeman did not apologize in so many words, he smoothed the matter over by a humorous repetition of his criticism. Later, some one mentioned again, "There you go again!" exclaimed Freeman. "Why can't we call it toe-woe?"

Fastest Road To Chicago.

The telephone toll lines. Messages travel instantly. No wrecks or delays. Rush past clerks and office boys. Reach your party. Your words for his ear; his words for your ear. And you remain attentive to your own business. Use the toll lines. It pays. Chicago Telephone Company.

Duke of Wellington.

The Iron Duke has always been a mystery. I have read that he was six feet four inches tall. I have read also that he was only five feet six inches. Historians tell us he was anywhere from five feet six inches to five feet eleven inches. There are some things, seemingly very simple, which it is impossible to establish; this is one of them. Historians are still guessing the height of Julius Caesar, the size of Hannibal's head, the weight of Alexander the Great and the general dimensions of Solomon. Why, we are not even sure of the stature of George Washington. It might be believed that Napoleon, Alexander the Great and Jay Gould were of the same size, and that three bumptious little chaps. And it is common belief that Charlemagne, Erling the Bold, Frederick the Great, Robert Bruce, Sir William Wallace, Gen. Winfield Scott and Richard Coeur de Lion were all top-notchers, "Old Fuss and Feathers," formed in the prodigality of nature, leading in girth and weight.—New York Press.

Toadstole.

In Shakespeare's time the belief prevailed in many quarters that the common toad had within its head a stone which possessed extraordinary virtues. Carried about the person, either loose in the pocket or set in a ring or locket, it insured the wearer against many dangers. Even so, adversely, though like the toad, "ugly and venomous," carries within itself that which may in the end benefit the one to whom it comes. It may be a blessing in disguise, just as the toad's head hides the "precious jewel."

The story is told of a Woodstock woman this way: The hired girl had been going to meet the grocer when he came with goods to the back door. The lady of the house noticed the fact and one day watched the girl and saw them kiss on the back porch. "Now, look here, Dorothy, I saw the grocer kissing you when you went out after the groceries; hereafter I shall go out myself." "But it won't do you any good, ma'am! he said he never would kiss anybody else but me."

Nowadays when a man falls in love with another man's wife, that's affinity; but when a man falls in love with your wife, that's—different. If you stand on the corner and make ugly remarks about another man's daughter, that's fun; but when it happens to be your girl, that's—scandal. So it is all along the line. It makes a lot of difference whose wife or daughter it is, and which way you peel the bark. Ever stop to think about it? Good job-work can be obtained from this office, that's—Common sense.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail.

Home of Swamp-Root. free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A Ready Answer.

The captain of a schooner that trades between New York and Savannah is noted for his wit, and on every occasion that offers he loses his shafts of humor, to the chagrin and embarrassment of his target. Sooner or later, the stringer gets stung, and this chronic pun artist is no exception to the rule.

On one occasion, when about two days out from New York, he approached a group of sailors who were washing the forward deck, and, singling out a big raw-boned Irishman who was experiencing his first taste of sailor's life, he gravely asked: "Can you steer the main mast down the forecastle stairs?" Quick as a flash came the reply, "Yia, sor; I can, if you will stand below and coil it up."

Piles are easily and quickly checked with Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. To prove it I will mail a small trial box as a convincing test. Simply address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. I surely would not send it free unless I was certain that Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen, painful, bleeding, or itching piles, either external or internal. Large jar 50c. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Curious Double Rainbow.

Of a curious double rainbow an observer says in a letter to the London Times: "On March 14 last, while on the voyage between Jamaica and the Isthmus of Panama at 11 a. m., the sun being then nearly in the zenith, a double rainbow of brilliant coloring appeared, forming a complete circle round the sun, the inner bow being some distance from the sun, the outer bow being about an equal distance from the inner. A clear horizon showed no signs of rain. Neither the captain nor any other soul on board had ever seen a similar phenomenon. The outer bow faded gradually away and then the inner bow."

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitter," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No 456 Houston St., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at J. H. Swan drug store. 50c.

Eggs and the Weather.

Eggs of an abnormal size are being laid in Devonshire, England, and an agricultural expert has given it as his opinion that this is due to changes in the weather. At Seaton a duck has laid an egg weighing half a pound; at Ottery St. Mary a duck's egg was found to contain three yolks; and at South Leigh the largest goose's egg ever recorded in the district has been laid.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of their digestive juices that destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by J. H. Swan.

Removing Oil Stains.

Yellow stains left by sewing-machine oil on white may be removed by rubbing the spot with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing with soap.

MARRIAGES AT SECOND HAND.

Peculiar Ceremony Believed by Many to Be Legal.

"Second-hand marriages," said a clergyman to a Philadelphia Bulletin writer, "are believed legitimate and binding by many ignorant people. In fact, during my stum work, I found a number of worthy couples who claimed to have been married second-hand. Of course, such marriages have no existence in law."

"To marry second-hand, you and your lady attend an actual wedding, and legally make the responses which the real bride and bridegroom make alone."

"Second-hand marriages are popular on account of their cheapness—they save all fees. Their secrecy is another great advantage—none can find them out. In fact, everybody would probably marry second-hand, but for the unfortunate fact that the ceremony doesn't legally hold."
